The Department of East Asian Studies strongly encourages its students to study abroad through the Education Abroad Program (UCEAP). East Asia is now solidly a global center of economic production, innovative cultural trends, and traditional lifestyles. It is not an exaggeration to say that no one’s education is complete today without a deep knowledge of the East Asian world. And the best way to acquire a deep and solid knowledge is to spend time in East Asia— in China, Japan, Taiwan, Korea, Hong Kong, or Singapore—and experience the excitement of life there in all its complexities and fascination. High-tech cityscapes and ancient temples in remote mountains, multinational companies and beach resorts, traditional cuisine and avant-garde art... these are all glimpses on some of our world’s future trends, and you will be able to navigate them in the local languages in the company of local people. Study in East Asia is a unique educational opportunity, a powerful career-boosting decision, and, above all, a wonderful life-changing experience.

Why study abroad?

Beyond academic competence, a generally unintended and unmeasurable result of education is the change it brings about in an individual’s thought processes and modes of experiencing the world. It is perhaps one of the greatest unacknowledged rewards of an education. Such change is as much the result of the context of one’s studies as it is of their content.

For students in the East Asian Studies program, nothing can compare with the context of living in Asia. No amount of classroom work can replace living for an extended period of time immersed in the culture of another country.

Some students go in order to improve language skills. Others go to gain a new perspective of the world. Some use the experience to build their resumes in preparation for government service, grad school applications, or international business. And some go just for the amazing adventures: taking a local bus along hair-raising mountain roads in Taiwan, watching Kabuki in Tokyo, climbing the Great Wall of China, hearing the slang of Singaporean teenagers in the subway, dancing in the night clubs of Hong Kong, or singing karaoke in Korea.

Regardless of the reasons for going, nearly all students return from abroad with a new perspective not only of the social, cultural, and political context of a foreign country, but a new appreciation of the strengths and weaknesses of their own country as well. Some students find their lives or career choices transformed by their study abroad experience. Many find that adjusting to a foreign way of living and studying is a time of great personal growth that enhances their confidence and sense of self in ways that translate to many other pursuits. College is the time for exploration.

Don’t miss out on a UCEAP experience!

Where should I study abroad?

UCEAP offers a variety of short-term and long-term study experiences in Asia. There are extensive program offerings in China, Hong Kong, Japan,

Cost of Study Abroad

Studying abroad through UCEAP can be comparable to or even less than the cost of staying at UCSB. UCEAP participants continue to receive UC financial aid. All UCEAP students are eligible for special scholarships.
Korea, Singapore, and Taiwan, where sophomores and above can go for a summer, a semester or a year to study. These countries offer programs for every level of foreign language, from beginner to fluent.

Rapidly developing economies combined with centuries of tradition and history make China, Hong Kong, Singapore, and Taiwan top destinations for students studying Chinese languages or cultures.

Go to the UCEAP web site for more detailed information on these programs: eap.ucop.edu.

What classes should I take?

All UCEAP students automatically earn UC credit for the work they complete abroad. However, the application of credit to major requirements is subject to the discretion of the department and approval of the college. Save all syllabi, papers and other relevant course information to help you petition courses for specific requirements. Plan ahead and consult with your advisors before leaving and while abroad.

Keep in mind that at least 20 units of upper-division major coursework (or 12 upper-division minor units) must be completed in residence at UCSB along with other residence requirements. Consult a Letters & Science College advisor for more information.

When should I study abroad?

Students can study abroad in Asia as early as their sophomore year or as late as their last semester of their senior year.

Regardless of when you plan to study abroad, start planning NOW!

How do I get started?

• Stop by the UCSB EAP office at 2431 South Hall.
• Go the UCSB EAP website, Getting Started, eap.ucsb.edu.
• Consult the UCEAP website, eap.ucop.edu, for program details.
• Go see your department undergraduate advisor.

Plan Ahead!

Applications are due as much as eight months prior to a program’s start date and some programs have academic or language prerequisites that must be satisfied in advance. Please check the UCSC EAP website for application due dates.

“Studying at Doshisha, I was able to improve my Japanese language skills drastically. If you want to learn a language, it is absolutely necessary to live in a country where that language is spoken for at least a year. I learned not just text book Japanese but the Japanese that is actually spoken by Japanese people.”

Stephanie H.
UCSB Japanese and Global Studies double major

Korea, Singapore, and Taiwan, where sophomores and above can go for a summer, a semester or a year to study. These countries offer programs for every level of foreign language, from beginner to fluent.

Rapidly developing economies combined with centuries of tradition and history make China, Hong Kong, Singapore, and Taiwan top destinations for students studying Chinese languages or cultures.

Go to the UCEAP web site for more detailed information on these programs: eap.ucop.edu.

East Asian Languages and Cultural Studies
2214 HSSB
University of California, Santa Barbara
Phone: (805) 893–5478
eastasian.ucsb.edu