| Coursework | Students enroll in two courses focusing on development and international economics in Southeast Asia:
  1) Topics in International Economics
  2) Topics in Development Economics
  Coursework combines traditional classroom lectures with problem-based learning. The courses are project-based and cover economic integration and contemporary issues of ASEAN, especially those of Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar, and Vietnam. Each course includes lecture, discussion, guest speakers, and field trips in Thailand. The program also includes a week-long fieldtrip to another ASEAN country (location varies each year). | Students enroll in three courses which include lectures, field work, and lab-based components:
  1) Southeast Asian Language & Culture – Basics of Thai and Burmese language and culture
  2) Mobility & Border Health - Concepts taught in the classroom introduce challenges facing migrants, the complex and dynamic reasons for migration, and the effects of globalization across geopolitical borders.
  3) Health Realities in Border Populations - The course takes an interactive approach to learning about border health issues and offers the chance to observe, interact, and problem-solve with migrant community members and stakeholders. | The courses offered in this program have an interdisciplinary focus and are offered under a variety of subject areas, including religious studies, sociology, anthropology, and South and Southeast Asian studies, as appropriate. Field excursions are an exciting and integral component of the courses. All excursions are required as part of the coursework and arranged by Thammasat University. | Students are placed in one of TU's international programs with coursework taught in English in:
  • Economic
  • Business Administration
  • Thai Studies
  • British and American Studies
  • Politics and International Relations
  • Social Policy and Development
  Students must take at least three of their five courses within their assigned program. Internships for credit are also available. Spring students may have the opportunity to extend to the summer to participate in an 8-week internship. |

Thammasat University is one of the top universities in Southeast Asia and is known for its student activism and interest in Thai politics. The university’s international programs taught in English are based on the main campus of Tha Prachan in the Chao Phraya riverfront area of central Bangkok. Within easy walking distance are some of Thailand’s most sacred temples, the Grand Palace (the Emerald Buddha Temple), the National Theater, the National Museum, and many government ministries.
